Scouts try their best to live by the 12 points of the Scout Law seven days a week, 365 days a year.

But each February, around the time of the BSA's birthday, we ask our Scouts to pause and pay extra attention to the Scout law's finishing touch: A Scout is reverent.

Through the celebrations known as Scout Sunday, Scout Sabbath, and Scout Jumuah, Scouts take a moment to reflect on their faith.

Every unit can celebrate Scout Sunday, Scout Sabbath, and/or Scout Jumuah as they choose. But the occasions are especially important for Scout units supported by faith-based chartered organizations.

In those units, the celebrations offer a great opportunity to give back in a public way.
