Miller Pecans are grown locally on the Miller family farm pecan trees nestled in the creek beds of the Neosho River Valley.

The price is simple -- it's either $10 or $15 per item (see the order form)

Units and the Council will share the profit 50/50.

For example:

For each $10 item sold, the unit gets to keep $2.62

For the Mammoth Pecans at $15, the unit gets to keep $3.50

For the Pecan pieces at $15, the unit gets to keep $4.00

PLEASE NOTE: Once the unit has received the product, the unit is responsible for keeping the chocolate cool so it doesn't melt.

There are many effective ways to market your unit to the families in your community.

Whether you prefer the old-school brochure or the fancy new social media asset — or maybe a little bit of both — the BSA Brand Center is here to help.

“Years ago, we said, “We need a place where people can find copies of logos, flyers ... all that marketing and promotional stuff that we need to spread the word about Scouting,” says Michael Ramsey, the BSA’s director of marketing and brand management. “So, we created the BSA Brand Center.”

The Brand Center is your source for BSA logos, photographs, promotional videos, and templates you can use to promote your Scouting unit. And all of it is free. Creating a username and password will give you access to additional features, but even that isn’t required.
